

THE ARCHITECTURAL REVIEW AWARDS FOR EMERGING ARCHITECTURE 2007

THE WORLD'S LEADING EMERGING ARCHITECTURE AWARD

Szervita tér
opening event

2008. 06. 02.
20.00

The AR Awards for Emerging Architecture is the biggest and best award for young architects in the world and gives £15 000 in prize money. Inaugurated in 1999, it is sponsored by Buro Happold and InterfaceFLOR. Intended to bring wider international recognition to a talented new generation of architects and designers, the Awards have attracted entries from more than 80 countries, representing every inhabited continent. Awards are for built or manufactured work only, and besides buildings, the full range of design activity, from landscapes and urban spaces to furniture and cutlery can be submitted.

This year's jury consisted of Shirley Blumfeld, of Toronto-based KPMB, Shuhei Endo from Osaka, Jo Noero from Cape Town, London-based architect and critic Peter Cook, and Peter Davey, the AR's former editor. Current editor Paul Finch was chairman.

